How We Travel

Sara lives in a busy city. Every morning, she goes to school by bus with her friends. The bus is sometimes crowded, but she enjoys talking to her classmates on the way. On weekends, her father drives the family in the car to visit her grandmother.

Last month, Sara's family went to the beach. They travelled by train because it was faster than the car. Sara loved looking out of the window and watching the trees and rivers pass by. At the beach, she also saw many boats. She wanted to ride one, but her little brother was afraid, so they only watched. In the summer holiday, Sara went on her first trip by plane. She flew with her mother to another country to visit her aunt. Sara was very excited when the plane went up into the sky. She looked through the window and saw the clouds and the sea far below.

Ways We Travel”

People use many kinds of transport to move from one place to another. In big cities, many people take buses or trains because they are fast and cheap. Some people prefer to drive their own cars, but traffic can be a big problem during busy hours.

In small towns, people often ride bicycles or walk because places are closer together. In some countries, people use boats to travel between islands. Airplanes are the fastest way to travel long distances, but they are also the most expensive.

Today, many people are thinking about the environment. They try to use transport that does not cause pollution, such as electric cars or public transport.
