EOT1 READING REVISION

 Six Reading Adventures • Skills • Questions • Answers

Your reading mission: read carefully, find clues, think like a detective, and choose the best answer. Every text helps you get stronger!

☆ YOU ARE A READING STAR! ☆

Take your time • Look for evidence • Believe in yourself

Prepared by Mrs Heba Omran

KNOW YOUR READING EXAM

The official structure has two reading parts. Each question has three options: A, B, or C. Read the text first, then look back for clues.

PART 3A — AT GRADE LEVEL GOAL

- Theme: Exciting Adventures — Lost in the Hajar Mountains / A Kayaking Adventure
- 1 descriptive text of 120–160 words.
- 8 multiple-choice questions × 3 marks = 24 marks.
- Question types: 4 Specific Information + 2 Details + 1 Inference + 1 Overall Meaning.

PART 3B — BEYOND GRADE LEVEL GOAL

- Theme: What Happens if...? — Amazing Weather Around the World
- 1 narrative text of 120–160 words (maximum 165 words).
- 8 multiple-choice questions × 2 marks = 16 marks.
- Question types: 3 Details + 2 Inference + 2 Connections + 1 Overall Meaning.

FIVE READING SKILLS

- Specific Information — Find a stated fact: who, where, when, what, or why.
  - Details — Choose a detail that the text tells you.
  - Inference — Use clues to work out something the writer does not say directly.
  - Connections — Connect an idea in the text to your own experience or familiar knowledge.
  - Overall Meaning / Main Idea — Choose what the whole text is mostly about—not a small detail.
- Remember: an inference is a smart guess supported by clues. The main idea is the big message of the whole text.

TEXT 1 — LOST IN THE HAJAR MOUNTAINS

PART 3A • AT GRADE LEVEL • Exciting Adventures

Last Friday, Sara and her cousin Omar went hiking in the Hajar Mountains with Sara's uncle. The morning was sunny, and the air was cool. They followed a narrow path and stopped beside a small stream to drink water. After lunch, dark clouds covered the sky. The path became difficult to see, and the children realised they had taken the wrong turn. Sara felt frightened, but her uncle stayed calm. He checked the map on his phone and asked everyone to stay together. They walked slowly back to a large rock they had passed earlier. From there, they found the marked path again. Before sunset, they reached the car safely. Sara learned that hikers should carry water, check the weather, and never leave the group. She was tired, but proud that they had made a safe decision.

📖 Word count: 137 words | Read twice: first for meaning, second for clues.

TEXT 2 — A KAYAKING ADVENTURE

PART 3A • AT GRADE LEVEL • Exciting Adventures

Mariam had been excited about her first kayaking trip for weeks. On Saturday morning, she and her older brother arrived at a quiet beach. Their instructor gave them life jackets and explained how to hold the paddles. At first, Mariam moved slowly because she was afraid of tipping over. Her brother showed her how to paddle on both sides. Soon, she was moving smoothly across the blue water. They saw tiny fish beneath the surface and a white bird resting on a rock. Suddenly, the wind became stronger, and small waves pushed their kayaks away from the shore. The instructor blew a whistle and guided everyone back to the beach. Mariam listened carefully and followed his directions. When she stepped onto the sand, she smiled with relief. She had enjoyed the trip and learned that adventure is more fun when people follow instructions and work together.

 Word count: 146 words | Read twice: first for meaning, second for clues.

TEXT 3 — THE HIDDEN VALLEY

PART 3A • AT GRADE LEVEL • Exciting Adventures

Faisal and his family were exploring a valley near their village during the school holiday. They carried sandwiches, water, and a small first-aid kit. Faisal enjoyed looking at the unusual rocks and taking photographs of the plants. His younger sister noticed a sign beside the path. It said that visitors should stay on the marked trail to protect the wildlife. A little later, Faisal heard a soft sound coming from behind some bushes. He wanted to investigate, but his father reminded him not to leave the trail. They waited quietly and saw a small mountain goat walking between the rocks. Faisal took a picture from a safe distance. On the way back, the family collected their rubbish and checked that they had all their belongings. Faisal said the valley was beautiful because people and animals could share the space safely. He decided to tell his classmates about responsible hiking.

TEXT 4 — A SCHOOL HEATWAVE PLAN

PART 3B • BEYOND GRADE LEVEL • Amazing Weather Around the World

The weather report warned that a heatwave would reach the city on Tuesday. At school, Ms Lina spoke to her class about staying safe in very hot weather. She explained that the temperature would be higher than usual and that students might feel tired or thirsty more quickly. The school moved outdoor sports to the early morning and opened a cool room for breaks. Students were asked to bring water bottles, wear light clothing, and tell an adult if they felt dizzy. Sami wanted to play football at lunchtime, but his friend Noor reminded him about the warning. They chose to read in the library instead. By the afternoon, the playground was almost empty, and the school nurse had helped two students who needed rest. The next day, Sami thanked Noor for reminding him to be careful. He understood that a small change in plans could prevent a bigger problem.

TEXT 5 — A TOWN STAYS SAFE IN A SANDSTORM

PART 3B • BEYOND GRADE LEVEL • Amazing Weather Around the World

One afternoon, a strong sandstorm moved towards a small desert town. The sky turned orange, and the wind carried sand across the roads. The local weather team sent a warning to people's phones. Shop owners closed their doors, and families went indoors. At the community centre, volunteers checked that older people had everything they needed. A bus driver stopped at a safe place because he could not see the road clearly. He called the transport office and waited for the storm to pass. A young girl named Huda wanted to go outside to bring in her bicycle, but her father asked her to stay inside. He explained that flying sand could hurt her eyes and make it difficult to breathe. By evening, the wind became weaker. Neighbours came out carefully and helped clear sand from the entrance of the community centre. The town was safe because people listened to warnings and helped one another.

 Word count: 154 words | Read twice: first for meaning, second for clues.

TEXT 6 — AMAZING WEATHER AROUND THE WORLD

PART 3B • BEYOND GRADE LEVEL • Amazing Weather Around the World

Different places around the world experience different kinds of weather. In a hot desert, a heatwave can make the temperature rise for several days. People need to drink water and avoid staying in the sun for too long. In some tropical areas, heavy rain can cause floods when rivers rise and water covers roads. Families may need to move to safer places if officials tell them to leave. In colder mountain regions, snowstorms can make roads slippery and difficult to see. Drivers should slow down or wait until the weather improves. Strong winds can also affect coastal towns, where large waves may reach the shore. Weather experts study information from satellites and special instruments to prepare warnings. Although people cannot control the weather, they can prepare for danger. Listening to trusted updates, keeping emergency supplies, and helping neighbours can reduce risks during extreme weather.

📖 Word count: 144 words | Read twice: first for meaning, second for clues.
