Reading Passage: Visiting the Zoo

Many people enjoy visiting the zoo to see animals from around the world. Zoos help protect animals that are endangered, like pandas and tigers. At the zoo, animals are given food, care, and a safe place to live. Lions, giraffes, and elephants are some of the most popular animals in the zoo.

Zoo workers, called zookeepers, take care of the animals every day. They clean the cages, feed the animals, and make sure they stay healthy. Some zoos also teach visitors about wildlife and nature.

Zoos can be fun and educational. When people visit zoos, they learn how animals live and what they need to survive. This helps people care more about protecting wildlife.

Q 1: Why do many people enjoy visiting the zoo?

A. To go shopping for exotic pets
B. To participate in animal races
C. To see various animals from around the globe
D. To learn how to become a professional zookeeper

Q 2: which animals are specifically mentioned as being endangered?

A. Lions and giraffes
B. Pandas and tigers
C. Bears and deer
D. Elephants and zebras

Q 3: What is a primary responsibility of a zookeeper?

- | |
|---|
| A. Teaching animals how to perform tricks for visitors |
| B. Releasing animals into the local neighborhood to play |
| C. Caring for the animals and cleaning their enclosures daily |
| D. Selling tickets and souvenirs to the visitors |

Q 4: How do zoos contribute to the well-being of animals?

- | |
|---|
| A. By training them to hunt for their own food in the cages |
| B. By providing a safe home, food, and medical care |
| C. By encouraging visitors to feed the animals their own snacks |
| D. By keeping animals in small spaces without any care |

Q 5: What is one of the educational benefits for visitors at a zoo?

- | |
|---|
| A. Learning the best ways to clean animal cages at home |
| B. Understanding how animals live and how to protect them |
| C. Learning how to cook specialized meals for wild tigers |
| D. Discovering how to capture wild animals for personal collections |

Desert Animals

Deserts are very dry places with hot days and cold nights. Even though water is hard to find, many animals have adapted to live in the desert. Camels are called the "ships of the desert" because they can travel long distances without water. They store fat in their humps, which helps them survive.

Fennec foxes have big ears that help them stay cool. Their fur also keeps them warm at night when it gets cold. Snakes and lizards hide under the sand to stay cool during the day and come out at night to find food.

Many desert animals sleep during the day and are active at night. This is called being nocturnal. These special habits help them survive in the desert's tough conditions.

Q 6: Why are camels called the "ships of the desert"?

A. Because they live in water
B. Because they carry people and travel long distances
C. Because they are fast runners
D. Because they have waterproof skin

Q 7: What do camels store in their humps?

A. Water
B. Fat
C. Sand
D. Food scraps

Q 8: How do fennec foxes stay cool?

A. They drink a lot of water
B. They sleep under trees
C. Their big ears help them
D. They swim in desert lakes

Q 9: When do most desert animals look for food?

A. In the morning
B. At noon
C. At night
D. During the hottest part of the day

Q 10: What does “nocturnal” mean?

A. Sleeps during the day and is active at night
B. Active during the day
C. Sleeps at night
D. An animal that only eats plants

Animals' Habitat

Every animal has a special place where it lives, called its habitat. A habitat provides everything an animal needs to survive, such as food, water, and shelter. For example, a forest is a habitat for many animals like deer, birds, and squirrels. In a forest, animals can find trees to hide in and plenty of plants to eat.

Another example is the desert. The desert is very dry and has little rain. Animals like camels and lizards live in the desert. They have special ways to find water and stay cool. The ocean is also a habitat. It is home to fish, dolphins, and whales. The ocean provides food and space for these animals to swim and live.

Each animal is adapted to its specific habitat. This means they have special features that help them survive in their homes. For instance, polar bears have thick fur to keep warm in the icy Arctic.

Q 11: What is a habitat?

- | |
|---|
| A. A specific type of weather found in the clouds |
| B. A type of food that animals eat |
| C. A tool that helps animals hunt |
| D. A place where an animal lives and survives |

Q 12: Which animal is adapted to live in the Arctic?

- | |
|----------------|
| A. Lizards |
| B. Dolphins |
| C. Squirrels |
| D. Polar bears |

Q 13: What do animals need from their habitat?

A. Food, water, and shelter
B. Sunlight and toys
C. Only water
D. Only food

Q 14: Which of the following is NOT a habitat mentioned in the passage?

A. Ocean
B. Forest
C. Mountains
D. Desert

Q 15: How do camels survive in the desert?

A. They hibernate during the heat
B. They have special ways to find water and stay cool
C. They can fly to find cooler areas
D. They grow thick fur to hide from the sun

Ocean Animals

The ocean is home to many amazing animals. Some, like dolphins, are mammals and must come to the surface to breathe air. Others, like fish, use gills to breathe underwater. Sea turtles are reptiles that can hold their breath for a long time but still need to come up for air.

Sharks are powerful predators that help keep the ocean food chain balanced.

They eat sick or weak animals, which helps keep other ocean creatures healthy.

Jellyfish, although soft and slow, can sting to protect themselves. They have no bones or brains, but they float with ocean currents.

Coral reefs are another important part of the ocean. They are made by tiny animals called coral polyps and provide shelter to many fish and sea creatures. Ocean animals are all connected in an ecosystem, and protecting the ocean helps keep them safe.

Q 16: What do dolphins need to do to breathe?

A. Use gills
B. Stay underwater all the tim
C. Come to the surface for air
D. Breathe through their skin

Q 17: How do fish breathe underwater?

A. With lungs
B. With gills
C. By drinking water
