Drink	drank
meet	met

Notice when we use did, the verb is in the present form.

Did you worked? Incorrect

Did you work? Correct

For negative sentences, we can contract do not/does not. (I didn't work.)

Verb "to be":

Remember, we can use contractions for negative sentences. For example:

She wasn't a student. They weren't students.

Positive	Questions	Negative
I was a student.	Was I asleep?	I was not a student.
You were a student.	Were you asleep?	You were not a student.
He/she was a student.	Was he/she asleep?	He/she was not a student.

Adverbial Linkers

Explanation of Adverbial Linkers

Adverbial linkers (also called conjunctive adverbs) are words or phrases used to connect ideas between sentences or clauses. They express relationships such as addition, contrast, cause and effect, time, and more. They make writing coherent and smooth.

Addition

also, moreover, furthermore, besides, in addition

Contrast

however, nevertheless, on the other hand, yet, instead

Cause and Effect

therefore, thus, consequently, as a result, hence

Time/Sequence

then, next, afterwards, finally, meanwhile

Comparison/Similarity

similarly, likewise, in the same way

Emphasis

indeed, in fact, above all, particularly

Condition

otherwise, if not

Example/Illustration

for example, for instance, namely, in particular

Examples of Adverbial Linkers in Sentences

- Addition: She enjoys music; moreover, she plays the piano well.
- Contrast: He worked hard; however, he didn't succeed.
- Cause and Effect: It was raining; therefore, we stayed indoors.
- Time/Sequence: First, finish your homework; then, you can play.
- Comparison/Similarity: She loves reading; likewise, her brother spends hours with books.
- Emphasis: He is indeed a talented artist.
- Condition: Hurry up; otherwise, we'll be late.

- Example/Illustration: Many fruits, for instance apples and bananas, are rich in vitamins.

Test Your Knowledge

Fill in the blanks with the correct adverbial linker from the list below.

List: however, therefore, moreover, for example, then, otherwise, indeed, similarly

1. She was tired; _____, she finished her work on time.
2. It was raining; _____, the match was canceled.
3. He loves sports; _____, he plays football every weekend.
4. You must study; _____, you may fail the exam.
5. First, cut the vegetables; _____, heat the oil.
6. Some animals, _____ lions and tigers, are carnivores.
7. The teacher is kind; _____, the students respect her.
8. He worked hard; _____, his brother was lazy.

Grammar - Nouns (compound nouns)

Meaning: Compound nouns are nouns made of two or more existing words.

For example, bed + room = bedroom

Form: Compound nouns can be open (space in between), hyphenated, or closed (no space in between) for example,

- bus stop (open)
- well-being (hyphenated)
- football (closed)

Examples of compound nouns

Form	Examples	My Examples
noun + noun	lunchtime, football, tennis shoes, motorcycle
verb + noun	breakfast, swimming pool, washing machine, driving licence
noun + verb	haircut, sunrise, rainfall, trainspotting
adjective + noun	smartphone, full moon, greenhouse, software
adjective + verb	dry-cleaning, public speaking, long lasting, highlight
preposition + noun	underground, upstairs, overnight, underline
preposition + verb	input, output, understand, outburst
noun + prepositional phrase	mother-in-law, father-in-law, son-in-law, Jack-of-all-trades

Some compound nouns are closed or hyphenated to reduce confusion.

For example:

- greenhouse – a structure made of glass where plants are grown
- green house – a house that is painted green

Grammar - Future Time (simple future 'will and shall')

Meaning: We can use 'will' to refer to the future.

Form

Positive (subject + will)	Negative (subject + will not / won't)	Question (Will / Won't* + subject)
I will start tomorrow	I will not / won't start tomorrow.	Will/Won't I start tomorrow?
You/We/They will start tomorrow	You/We/They will not / won't start tomorrow.	Will/ Won't you/we/they start tomorrow?
He/She/It will start tomorrow.	He/She/It will not / won't start tomorrow.	Will/ Won't I he/she/it start tomorrow?

*A negative question is always formed with the contraction, 'won't'.

Will not it start tomorrow?	incorrect
Won't it start tomorrow?	correct

Uses: 'Will' can be used to:

Function	Example
• Describing the future	Next year will be a wonderful year!
• make predictions	The red car will finish the race first.
• express a decision at the time of speaking	Ah, I forgot my wallet; I'll just go back for it.
• make a request	Will you help me?
• make promises and offers	I'll drive you to the airport, no problem.
• Describe the consequences of an action	If it is sunny, we will have a picnic!

Shall 'Shall' has a very similar meaning to 'will' but is used mostly to ask for and make offers and suggestions. It is used mainly with 'I' and 'we'.

Shall I drive you to the airport?
 Where shall we go?
 What shall we do?
 I shall help you with the project tomorrow.

Exam Grammar - Adjectives followed by prepositions and infinitives

Meaning Some adjectives are followed by certain prepositions. There are no grammatical rules for which preposition to use, but it is useful to look for patterns.

Some adjectives are followed by the to-infinitive. Again, there are no grammatical rules for this, but it is a good idea to look for

I'm interested in learning Spanish.
 He's worried about failing the exam.
 She's really good at maths.
 The receptionist was very polite to me.

It is unlikely to rain.
 I'm happy to see you.
 We are sorry to hear your bad news.
 It's easy to speak English, but it's difficult to

We can use the 'to-infinitive' after some adjectives to give opinions about people:
 You were kind to buy me a present.
 He was wrong to shout at the teacher.

We can use 'at' after adjectives to talk about skills and abilities:
 I'm good at languages.
 They are amazing at playing tennis.
 We are so bad at time management.

We can also use 'of' after other adjectives of feeling:
 I'm scared of flying.
 She's terrified of having an accident.
 We are proud of you.

We can use 'in' and 'for' after other adjectives:
 He's very interested in history.
 Do you have any experience in coding?
 Smoking is bad for your health.

We can use 'about' after adjectives of feeling to explain what is causing that feeling:
 I'm worried about my exam.
 He's angry about his manager's decision.
 We are excited about seeing you.

We can use 'to' after adjectives to show a connection between people or things, or to talk about someone's behaviour towards someone else:

She is married to Salem.

I am allergic to nuts.

The shop assistant was very rude to me.

We can use the 'to-infinitive' after some adjectives to give a reason for the adjective:

I'm sorry to hear that.

I'm pleased to meet you.

He was surprised to see me there.

We often use 'It + be + adjective + to-infinitive' to give opinions:

It's easy to play the piano.

It was impossible to go out at the weekend because of the bad weather.

It's hard to find good workers.

We can use the 'to-infinitive' after some adjectives to give opinions about people:

You were kind to buy me a present.

He was wrong to shout at the

We can sometimes use 'It + be + adjective + for/of + to-infinitive' to show who the adjectives refer to:

It's kind of you to help us.

It will be foolish of him to refuse the job.

Reading Comprehension:

Culture and Traditions of the UAE

Last week, our school organized a special event about the culture and traditions of the UAE. It was part of our education program, and everyone was excited. The hall was beautifully decorated with flags and traditional fabrics. First, our teacher explained how Emiratis show respect to the elderly by greeting them politely and listening carefully. Then, she showed us the traditional dress. The girls wore abayas and shaylas, while the boys wore kanduras. They all looked proud and comfortable.

After that, a famous poet performed a beautiful poem about happiness and unity. He began to chant slowly, and soon everyone joined him. The rhythm was strong, and the words touched our hearts deeply. Later, we watched a video about modern festivals and weddings in the UAE. We learned that, although life has changed, traditions still play an important role.

Finally, our school leader thanked everyone for keeping the Emirati spirit alive. I realized that our culture connects the past and the present, teaching us pride and respect. The event was unforgettable, and I left feeling truly proud of my heritage.

A. Read the text again and answer the following questions.

1. What did the students wear during the traditional dress activity? (Reading for Details)

- A) Jeans and T-shirts
- B) Sports uniforms
- C) Kanduras and abayas

2. What can we infer about the poet's performance when he began to chant slowly?

(Reading for Inference)

- A) The audience felt bored
- B) The poem was emotional and meaningful
- C) The event was about music lessons

- A) To show that traditions are no longer important
- B) To describe only entertainment events
- C) To explain how traditions continue in modern times

4. How can the writer's experience connect to your own life? (Reading to make Connections)

- A) School events often help us learn about our culture and respect others
- B) Every school day is the same and boring
- C) We only learn about other countries' traditions

5. What is the main message of the narrative? (Reading for Overall Meaning)

- A) Education helps students understand and value their traditions
- B) Festivals are more fun than school
- C) Old traditions should be replaced by modern ideas

Reading:

The Spirit of Emirati Traditions

Last month, my class visited a cultural center to learn about the traditional dress and poetry of the UAE. The hall was full of beautiful kanduras, abayas, and colourful scarves. First, our guide explained how Emiratis wear their clothes with pride and respect, especially during a festival or wedding. The fabrics looked soft and very comfortable.

Next, an elderly man, who was a famous poet, greeted us warmly. He recited a poem about unity and happiness. As he began to chant, his deep voice echoed across the room. Everyone listened quietly, and even the teachers smiled proudly. The man said that poetry has always been an important part of Emirati education and heritage.

Afterwards, we watched a short film about how modern poets still keep the old traditions alive. They write about their country's leaders, families, and daily life. Finally, our teacher asked us to write our own short poems. I wrote about the desert at sunset, and I felt proud to share it. The visit was both inspiring and unforgettable, reminding us how culture connects the past and present.

A. Read the text again and answer the following questions.

1. Who recited the poem during the visit? (Reading for Details)

- A) The class leader
- B) An elderly poet
- C) The teacher

Buildings and Structures

In the future, buildings will be designed to connect people with nature. Many architects imagine homes that have open spaces, sliding doors, and sliding windows to let fresh air in and keep rooms cool. Some buildings might even use wheels to move from one place to another, or float like a boat to travel across water. In busy cities, people will still need quiet areas to relax. Designers like Wina believe that we can mix modern technology with natural elements. She imagines green roofs, large windows, and materials that save energy. These ideas will make our homes not only beautiful but also friendly to the planet.

Multiple Choice Questions

1. What will buildings in the future do to connect people?

- A. They will close all windows.
- B. They will connect people with nature.
- C. They will make cities busier.
- D. They will stop using energy.

2. How will rooms stay cool in future homes?

- A. By using sliding doors and windows.
- B. By adding more lights.
- C. By keeping windows closed.
- D. By removing open spaces.

3. What can some future buildings do, according to the text?

- A. Travel like a boat.
- B. Stay under the ground.
- C. Have no windows.
- D. Never move.

4. Who is Wina in the passage?

- A. A scientist studying the ocean.
- B. A designer who likes technology and nature.
- C. A person who builds cars.
- D. A traveler who writes books.

5. What is one goal of future buildings?

- A. To use more energy.
- B. To be friendly to the planet.
- C. To make cities smaller.
- D. To avoid using wheels.

Polo Picasso

Read the text and answer the questions.

Pablo Picasso was an artist who is most famous for inventing new and very different ways to paint. Picasso was born on October 25, 1881, in Malaga, Spain. His father was also an artist. When he was young, Picasso studied art with his father and at art schools in Malaga and then in Barcelona. In 1897, he went to the Royal Academy in Madrid, but left and went home to Barcelona.

In Barcelona, he became part of a group of artists and writers. Picasso began to travel to Paris in 1900 to meet and work with other young artists. After 1904, he lived in France most of the time.

During his long life, Picasso painted in many different ways. From 1901 to 1904, he did most of his paintings in blue. This is called his Blue Period. From 1904 to 1906, he used mostly red and pink, which is called his Pink Period.

In 1907, he invented a new kind of painting called cubism. People and objects were not painted as they are seen in real life. Instead, they were painted as geometrical forms, such as cubes. At first, most people did not like this new type of painting, but it slowly became more popular. In 1937, Picasso painted Guernica, one of his most famous cubist paintings. It shows his view of the death and destruction caused when Spanish civilians were bombed during the Spanish Civil War. The painting is now considered to be a masterpiece.

Picasso worked on many other new types of paintings, but he was also a sculptor and a designer. In 1917, he designed the set and the costumes for a ballet. In the 1940s, he wrote a play and two books of poetry. Picasso was very poor when he was a young artist, but he became wealthy and very famous. He was married twice and had four children. He died at age 91 in Antibes, France, on April 8, 1973.

Read the statements below. Write True or False next to the statements.

Reading

Read the text and answer questions 1-7 below by circling the best answer -

Driving is the usual way of getting around the Emirates. There are good quality motorways and there is an efficient, modern network of roads in the cities. However, with increased traffic congestion, many Dubai residents are looking for other means of transport. The most common form of public transport is the taxi. They are found all over Dubai and are safe, quite inexpensive and convenient, except during the rush hour when you are likely to be stuck in a traffic jam.

For a less stressful journey, using Dubai's fast and efficient network of public transport is a sensible option. There is the fully automated metro rail network, which has been a great success since it opened in 2009, with tens of thousands of residents using it for their daily commute. Connecting the metro to the Dubai tram route in 2014 was one of the first steps to the expansion and integration of the public transport system. There are also plans to link the metro with the UAE's planned national railway network, Etihad Rail, which will carry both passengers and freight throughout the Emirates.

Then, there are the buses that run frequently throughout Dubai and connect it with the six other Emirates. Travelling by bus is becoming increasingly popular as routes and schedules are improved. They are clean, comfortable, air conditioned and cheap. Away from land there are water buses, taxis and the traditional abra. Crossing the Dubai Creek in a wooden abra or a new electric water bus is a safe and relaxing way to travel. If you want to navigate the Arabian Sea or would just prefer to travel without other people, then an air-conditioned water taxi is perfect.

Choosing the best way to travel in Dubai is becoming easier every year as the government continues to improve the public transport system. And for those wishing to travel out of Dubai to other cities, an even more exciting development is coming for the future! The government has just announced plans for a new 'hyperloop' system. This is an extremely fast train - it can travel up to 1,200 km/hr - which will link Dubai to Abu Dhabi as well as to other major cities in the Gulf region. This will cut down on travel time a lot - it is thought it will only take 12 minutes to get from Dubai to Abu Dhabi. So, perhaps soon, we will be getting on a train and arriving in Muscat or Riyadh in just under an hour

1. Choose the best title for the text.

- A) An Inexpensive Way to Travel
- B) The New Train System
- C) Every Means of Transport Available
- D) The Taxi is the Way to Go

2. Why are some residents looking for other means of transport?

- A) It is too expensive to run a car.
- B) There are too many cars on the road.
- C) The taxis are too expensive.
- D) The roads aren't good enough.

3. What reasons does the text suggest for the Metro's continued success?

- A) It runs every day.
- B) It opened in a good year.
- C) It was linked to other train networks.
- D) It is separate from other trains.

4. Which reason is given for buses getting more popular?

- A) They don't get stuck in traffic.
- B) They have got cheaper.

- C) The routes have got better,
- D) You can travel without people.

5. What kind of transport is mentioned for people who want to be alone?

- A) a water taxi.
- B) an abra
- C) a water bus
- D) a dhow

6. A future transport development for Dubai is ____.

- A) reducing taxi numbers
- B) more metro stations
- C) bigger boats
- D) a very fast train

7. Which city will it take under 20 minutes for the Hyperloop to reach from Dubai?

- A) Abu Dhabi
- B) Jeddah
- C) Muscat
- D) Riyadh

Now, read the text again and decide whether the sentences are True (T), False (F) or Not Given (NG)

8. The metro rail and Jumeirah tram connected in 2009.

T / F / NG

9. Water busses are cheaper than taxis or the metro.

T / F / NG

10. The hyperloop will take less than 20 minutes to reach Abu Dhabi. T / F / NG

Format: One text of 100 words related to theme. One question asking for an opinion. (15 marks)

1.1 Read the text. Write your opinion about wearing normal clothes to school. Write at least 3-4 sentences.

Many schools around the world ask students to wear uniforms, but some schools let them wear normal clothes.

We talked to Sara from Dubai, who is studying in Sydney, Australia. Her new school doesn't have a uniform. "I really like that," she said. "I can choose what to wear and show my own style. It makes me feel more comfortable and confident."

Sara thinks wearing normal clothes helps students express themselves. "Everyone looks different, and that's what makes it interesting," she said. She also believes it helps her focus. "When I feel relaxed, I can learn better."

Sometimes it's hard to decide what to wear each morning, but Sara doesn't mind. "I prefer that over wearing the same thing every day," she laughed.

Many students dream about studying in another country. They want to see new places, meet new people, and learn in a different way.

We talked to Omar from Abu Dhabi, who is studying in Canada. “At first, it was difficult to live away from my family,” he said. “But I’ve learned to be more independent and confident.”

Omar enjoys learning about different cultures and traditions. “I made friends from many countries,” he explained. “It helps me understand the world better.”

He sometimes misses home, but he believes studying abroad is a great experience. “You grow as a person,” he said. “I think every student should try it if they can.”
