Reading Test: Nature and Travel

Passage: An Unforgettable Adventure

Last summer, my friends and I went on an unforgettable journey to a remote destination in the mountains. The site was known for its stunning views, rich flora and fauna, and breathtaking landscapes. Our goal was to explore the area, celebrate nature, and enjoy a few days away from the city.

We packed a picnic box, a first-aid kit, sunscreen, and insect-repellent, knowing we'd be spending most of our time outdoors. The trip started well. The weather was perfect, and our travel agent had arranged for a friendly tour guide to help us get around. Each day, we hiked through beautiful trails, stargazing at night and enjoying mouthwatering meals around the campfire. The atmosphere was relaxed and sociable.

On the third day, something unexpected happened. I was starving after a long hike and accidentally dropped our entire lunch into a stream. It was a disastrous moment, but we laughed it off and shared snacks instead. The tour guide told us that sometimes, the best memories come from little mistakes.

On the last evening, we stayed up late to take in the stunning skyline. The stars were shining, the air was fresh, and we felt completely satisfied. This trip wasn't just exciting—it was enlightening. It reminded us how important it is to disconnect from daily life and reconnect with nature.

Part 4: Inference and Justification

 A Journey Into Nature

Many people travel to famous cities, but spending time in nature offers a different kind of experience. Hiking in the mountains, walking through forests, or stargazing in the desert can all help us feel more peaceful. Nature has a way of calming our minds and giving us a break from technology and busy life.

Traveling also teaches us a lot. When we visit new places, we learn about different cultures, landscapes, and ways of life. For example, visiting a desert can show you how people live with limited water. Exploring the rainforest can teach you about biodiversity and the beauty of flora and fauna.

Most importantly, nature and travel bring people together. Whether sitting around a campfire, sharing a picnic, or climbing a mountain as a group, these shared experiences help build strong relationships and lasting memories.

Part 5: Inference and Justification

Model Answers

Part 1: Opinion Sample

I think spending time in nature is better than staying in a city. Nature helps people feel relaxed, and it's a great way to enjoy fresh air and beautiful views.

Part 2: Essay Plan Sample

- Paragraph 1: Introduction to nature and travel
- Paragraph 2: Nature is important for health and peace
- Paragraph 3: Travel helps us learn about different places and cultures
- Paragraph 4: Nature and travel help us connect with others
- Paragraph 5: Conclusion – why nature and travel are valuable

Part 3: Essay Sample

Spending time in nature and traveling to new places are great ways to improve our lives. Nature helps people relax, think clearly, and feel happier. Being outside in the fresh air is good for our mental and physical health.

T3-2024-2025-Grade 9 General -U9 Revision

Travel also teaches us many things. When people visit other countries or natural locations, they learn about different lifestyles, food, and cultures. This makes us more open-minded and understanding. For example, seeing how people live in mountain villages or deserts can be very educational.

Finally, both nature and travel help people connect. Families and friends grow closer when they explore together. Sitting under the stars, sharing meals, or hiking in groups creates unforgettable memories. In conclusion, nature and travel are not only fun but also help us grow as people.

Part 5: Model Inference and Justification

Inference Answer:

Yes, the author believes that nature and travel are good for people's well-being.

Justification Answer:

The author says that nature "calms our minds" and that travel teaches us about "cultures, landscapes, and ways of life." The text also explains how these experiences bring people together and help create strong relationships and memories.
