Reading Section (20 Marks)

Read the article below and answer the following questions.

Just like adults, we know that you, the young people, need money. It's a subject that you often discuss with your families. Some parents can give their children pocket money, but that's not always the case, especially in large families where it's not easy to do so. That's why today we're offering you a series of tips to earn some money.

According to the law of some European countries, for example, you can work from the age of 16, but under certain conditions. For example, you can only work during vacation periods because school is compulsory. Moreover, there are limitations on the types of jobs you can do due to your young age.

Here is a list of ideas for small jobs that are suitable for you. For example, you can offer help in your neighborhood by cleaning your neighbors' gardens or mowing their lawns. This can be especially appealing to older people, and they will appreciate the company. Another possibility is to help primary school students with their homework if they are struggling at school. But keep in mind that for this type of activity, you need to be patient and enjoy spending time with younger children. During vacations, many people go away and need someone they trust to take care of their pets, water their plants, or watch over their house or apartment. It's a job that doesn't take much time and isn't difficult to do.

Finally, if you live in the countryside, you can work in the fields picking fruits or vegetables. It's true that, unlike other jobs, this one requires more effort. Bruno says that picking grapes is tiring, but it's a very rewarding experience. He also claims to have made many friends and had a great time. Starting to work when you're young allows you to understand the value of money, work, and become more independent. So don't hesitate any longer and give it a try!
