There are some special children who are very clever, scientists call them prodigies. They are unusually genius. These intelligent children can, for example, write music or play chess at a very young age. No one understands why they are so clever. There is nothing strange about their parents or their families. In fact, genius children mostly come from normal families with normal intelligence level.

Sometimes, a genius child is good at more than one or two things. When it comes to the looks, Francesca Contini looks like any other young teenager, but when it comes to the abilities, she's already started studying as a doctor at university at the age of 13. Francesca and her two older brothers are also excellent musicians, and they have all played at concert halls in New York where they live. Their parents work in a supermarket. They have never been interested in music and they are very surprised by their very smart children.

Twelve-year-old Peter Lee is another example of a clever child. He is already an excellent piano player. He is very bored at school, so in the evenings he teaches himself math and science from books for university students. When he was five, he got first prize in a piano competition for children up to 18. At the age of 10, Peter made his first CD album. On it, he played many different kinds of music.
