READING: TOM BARRY (1/2)

Tom Barry is seventeen and started skateboarding when he was nine. He grew up in New York where he practised hard and won his first competition at the age of fourteen. He was lucky, a writer from “SKATE IT MAGAZINE” watched him that day, then wrote an article about him. They even made a video of him. He left school last year and now the magazine is paying him to practise and to skateboard in international competitions. But he’s not doing this for money. He’s doing this because it’s so much fun.

READING: TOM BARRY (2/2)

Skateboarding is the third most popular sport for boys aged 12–16 in the USA, but in Japan it is less well-known. Tom has just returned from Japan. He said: “I took my skateboard out into the city streets and the traffic stopped as people watched me. A problem for skateboarders in Japan is that there aren’t many places for them to practise outside. Skate parks are usually inside the buildings in large cities, so street skating is difficult there. But things are changing. I loved the trip and hope to go back to Japan very soon. I am planning to fly there next March.”
