C- Read the club reports in the school magazine. Then answer the questions below.

Tennis Club

This year has been an excellent year for the tennis club. Last year, we started with 20 members and now we have 45. During the year, many of our members played in competitions at school and for the area. David Markham entered the National Competitions and came second. Well done, David! Perhaps next year he can win the first place. And then maybe win the Wimbledon Championship in July. Last July, A group of about 25 members went to watch the Wimbledon Championship, and they haven't stopped talking about it. It was a wonderful year. Let's hope next year is even better!

Book Club

We have finished with five more members than when we started last year, to reach 35 members this year. We started as a small club, but we certainly love books. During the year, we read 12 different books and had some very interesting discussions. Everyone really liked the novel by Charles Dickens. Of course, we read modern novels as well. We also have some good news. One of our prizewinner members, Judith Springer, who won the Annual National Writing Competition, has written several short stories this year, and people can read two of them in next month's Writer's World magazine. Judith isn't sure if she wants to be a journalist or a novelist. However, We are sure that she'll do well in both jobs!

Photography Club

Last year was our first year and it was a very good one indeed. More than 30 students joined the club, and we had members between the ages of 11 and 18. We met every week in the photo studio and learned different techniques for taking photographs and making films. We also learned a lot about different types of cameras. We had some interesting talks by some very good experts too. And of course there was the End-of-Year Competition. Kenny Summers won this. His photograph was of bees on flowers in a field near his home. Congratulations, Kenny! You can see all the photographs from the competition on the club website on www.photosclub.com. And if you're interested in joining next year, please contact Clive on the website.

DIRECTORATE OF EXAMINATIONS

SECOND INTERMEDIATE EXAMINATION

END OF SECOND SEMESTER EXAM / MAY 2019

There are two questions in this listening exam, A & B. You must answer them both.

Listening A

You have one minute to read the questions.

Pause for one minute

You will hear part of an interview with a schoolgirl called Martha, who has started her own website to advertise local businesses to young people. For each question, choose the correct answer A, B or C.

Interviewer: And with me in the studio today is 15 year old Martha Connel, who started a website which lets local shops and cafes advertise and reach lots of young people in the town. Martha what made you start this website?

Martha: Well, our IT teacher at school taught us all about business logos and websites. It wasn't like I really thought I could help local shops attract to young people or anything. I just decided I wanted to understand how to actually build a website myself.

Interviewer: Your website is very popular! But, how is yours different from all the other ones that compare prices and that sort of thing?

Martha: Well, when you open up my page you just see the logos with all these different companies, shops, cinemas, cafes. It's not just a table with products and lots of prices. That's what all the others are. But just with a different site name at the top.

Interviewer: I see. So, you can click on one of these logos on your website and go to their website.

Martha: Aha

Interviewer: So, have you earned a lot?

Martha: No, that wasn't the idea when I started. I didn't know if anyone would use my website, and I don't ask for much money. But, now my site is so popular that I earn more than I actually spend on keeping it running!

Interviewer: What do your friends think of this?

Martha: Oh, they seem glad it's done well, because they know it is something I get pleasure from. They don't think it is the most exciting way to spend free time though!

Interviewer: You've obviously worked hard. What's been the biggest challenge?

Martha: At first, I didn't think that business people took me very seriously because I'm just a school kid. I had to prove that it was worth it, that advertisements on my site would get interest from younger customers.

Interviewer: After school, will the website be part of your future career?

Martha: Computers are a great fun, but it would be great to get involved in something that really helps people. Besides, I still have got loads of time to decide.

Listening B

You have one minute to read the questions.

Pause for one minute

You will hear a headteacher telling his students about a school short story competition. For each question, fill in the missing information in the numbered space.

Headteacher:	Good morning school! I would like to start this morning by giving you all some information about a short story competition. It's open to pupils from all classes, and I hope a lot of you will decide to take part. You must call your story 'Winter' but you can deal with the topic in any way that you like. Last year we also had a similar competition and the title then was 'Spring'. We had some very interesting and original entries. It is important that your stories are not too long, a maximum of 500 words, please. That's longer than last year's which was a maximum of 350 words. We won't read any stories that go above the limit. Now, I must tell you about dates. It's the 1 st of April now, and we would like your stories by the end of this month. We then promise to read all the entries and give you the results before the end of May. You can give your story in as soon as you've finished it. Don't leave them in the classroom. But hand them into the office. When we have all the stories, we'll make copies for the people who will read them. Three judges will read your stories. The chief judge will be Anna Quartin, she has written a lot of short stories and novels for teenagers. If you want to find out more about her on the internet, you spell her name: Q - U - A - R - T - I - N. Finally, the prizes. There will be a winner from each age group, and each winner will receive tickets for this summer's music festival. Last year's winner won tickets to the theater and had a wonderful evening at the musical 'Cats'.
