Application letter example:

Nada Ali

PO Box 123

Kingdom of Bahrain

The Manager

Ethical Fashion

Raya Street

Kingdom of Bahrain

Dear Sir/Madam,

Application for part-time shop assistant

I am writing to apply for this job which I saw online. I am very interested in this job as I have always loved ethical fashion. I think it's important to have more shops that care about the environment, shops just like yours.

I am a confident, organised and responsible person. I enjoy talking to new people about the latest styles. I speak both Arabic and English. Also, I have worked before in a clothing shop. My manager was very happy with me.

As noted in my CV, I believe that my skills and personality are a very good fit for this position. I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours faithfully,

Nada Ali

Persuasive essay example #1:

Exploration gives us a better understanding of our world. And some people believe exploring the oceans is better than exploring outer space. So, which is better?

Outer space is wide. We do not know where it ends. Some may say that the oceans are also big. But the oceans end at the centre of the earth, they're not limitless. So, exploring the oceans would take less time.

Now, while exploring the oceans would cost a lot of money, it's only a bit of what we'd need to explore outer space. Which is why exploring outer space would only benefit the rich who could explore it and someday live in it. Unlike what we would find in the oceans which would benefit most people.

To sum up, exploring the oceans would cost less, benefit most people and take less time.

Persuasive essay example #2:

It's very important to make new technology. People think our plans should focus on building spacecraft. Others believe it should focus on building robots. Which is better?

Just one spaceship costs billions of dollars more to build than even the most complex robot. Many robots could be designed and built much more cheaply than spaceships, and they could be used for practical purposes right here on Earth.

Also, robots will have new applications in the future, but even the robots we now have benefit us in practical ways. For example, they can work in dangerous conditions, such as places with extreme temperatures.

To sum up, it's clearly better to give attention, time and money to the technological development of robots. They are cheaper to create and more useful. Robots also benefit people in ways that are more practical.

Short story example:

Fishing With My Grandfather

Whenever I look at this photo, I think of fishing with my grandfather. When we were younger, he always asked us to go together. At first, we would, but fishing seemed so boring, finally, we told him. After that, he would go alone.

Years later, I tried going with him again. We got in the water, threw the line and waited. After three hours we only got one tiny fish.

‘Grandpa, why do you like spending hours like this?’ I asked. ‘It’s so boring!’

He told me about how fishing reminds him of his younger years when they didn’t have smartphones. About how happy he was.

This photo changed how I see my grandfather. And after I took the picture, we hooked the biggest fish I’ve ever seen! It was so exciting. After that, I always went fishing with him.

News report example:

Scorched Earth

Firefighters quickly responded to a wildfire last night in Zallaq. The fire broke out at 4 PM and took three hours to be put out.

This marks the fifth wildfire to break out on farming grounds in the last two years. And despite taking a long time to be put out, it is not the longest time spent to put out a wildfire in recent years. Many link these horrible wildfires to climate change and are urging the government to act fast.

The Bahraini firefighting department has always been an amazing team who respond to fires as fast as they could. They train hard to ensure the safety of citizens and to finish the job with as much speed as they could. However, even they cannot keep with the many wildfires that are happening right now.
