Bill Gates is the richest man in the world. His enormous wealth means he can influence politicians and governments as well as the world of business. His money comes from the Microsoft Corporation, the company he started in 1975 with an old school friend, Paul Allen.

Bill Gates' story started in 1955. He was born in Seattle, where he grew up with his parents and two sisters. His father was a lawyer and his mother was a teacher. When he was thirteen, he started to become interested in computers and began developing computer software. In 1972 he made his first big sale, of $4200, when he sold timetable software to his school.

Bill Gates went to Harvard University and while he was there he started Microsoft. It was obvious that the new business was going to be a great success so, in 1976, he dropped out after doing three years of a four-year course. Microsoft grew into an enormous international company that employs 54,000 people all over the world. Gates met his wife, Melinda, in 1987 when she was working for Microsoft. They got married in 1994 and now have two children: Jennifer, born in 1996 and Rory, born in 1999.

In 2000, when his personal fortune was more than $100 billion, Bill Gates stepped down as chief executive of Microsoft to return to his first love, the development of software. In addition to his work at Microsoft, he is involved in the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation. This charity gives money to health and education projects all over the world. For example, the foundation donated $750 million to pay for lifesaving vaccinations to children in the developing world. At home, the foundation gives money to bring computers, Internet access and training to public libraries in poor areas in the United States and Canada. He and his wife have put more than $17 billion into their foundation.
