READING COMPREHENSION

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

The idea of asking my son Tony, who is nine, to give up computers and electronic games for a week was a tall order. Will he agree to come off the computer while I have trouble getting him to leave it for few minutes? His first response when I broached the subject was predictable enough. 'Why?' he said. I explained that the experiment was meant to discover what he would do with his time instead. After a big argument, he unwillingly accepted the idea.

I hated to confess Tony was spending up to six hours a day glued to the screen. Every day, he loves to spend his time hopping between his handheld DS games console, the computer and children's TV. Sure enough, a tough negotiation followed my proposal that he finds something else to do with his time. He pleaded to be allowed children's TV. I accepted, but for no more than 45 minutes each day.

My husband and I were both delighted at such a rapid change to his routine, but Tony was still anxious that friends might not want to come over if they could not play computer games. Yet, he needn't have troubled. At the bus stop he was invited to a friend's for tea. When we mentioned our no-computer rule, the mother agreed and so the boys played hide and seek. They surprisingly started being motivated enough to touch some of the dusty magazines which were thrown in the attic.

We were struck by how relaxed and good-tempered Tony seemed. Freed from computer games, he was more co-operative. Without his MP3, he was much chattier. Although Tony was eager to get back to his computer, he readily agreed to some new limits. There will be a ban on Mondays, Thursdays and Fridays after school, and only three hours allowed each day at weekends. In my experience, children prefer firm rules.

Summary-making

Nowadays, most big companies have specialists on human resources that search for profiles in these kinds of sites to recruit new workers. If you are looking for a job you can create a profile and you might be recruited by a company. Another fact about these sites is that they are the perfect spot to meet new people online. With the help of advanced search tools you can find users who have the same interests you do, and that can be the starting point of a great friendship. Moreover, people who feel shy to talk to others can easily overcome their shyness by using social networking platforms and establishing new contacts. Later, their face-to-face interaction with others will become easier because they have already talked and interacted online. As for businessmen, these sites offer the chance to promote their businesses by creating specific profiles that all the users can visit and deal with. Thus, it is clear that these sites bear a lot of benefits for all the Web users.

In a paragraph of FOUR sentences ONLY, summarise and paraphrase the passage above in answer to the following question:

What benefits can people get from social networks?

Energy

Energy is very important in our life. All modern aspects of life need energy to run. We use electrical energy in our homes for cooking, heating and TV.

There are different sources of energy, finite sources such as; oil, gas and coal and renewable sources like solar, wind and waves power. There are many disadvantages of finite sources of energy. For example, they cause pollution, cost too much money and they will run out one day.

On the other hand, renewable sources of energy have many advantages. They are infinite, clean and cheap power. We can save energy in many ways. For example, we should not let all the lights or the A/C on if we don't need them. Furthermore, using buses instead of cars can save a lot of energy.

In short, we should work hard to find alternative ways of using natural energy. If we want to keep having when we save energy, we save life for all of us.

Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow.

My favourite book has no author. It has no chapters and little text. Some would say this book has no plot and no characters, but I know otherwise. This book reflects the physical and political history of our world, covers hundreds of nations, thousands of ethnic groups, and billions of people.

This book is the 1987 Rand McNally Universal World Atlas, a tall green volume with a worn cover and loose binding. I loved almost all atlases, but what makes this particular atlas so special is the impact it had on me as a young child. I remember discovering it for the first time on a bookshelf in our house. When I opened it, I discovered maps of every region and country in the world. I was surprised. I spent hours poring over the pages of the atlas that first day. I wanted to know more about where I fit in the world.

As my interest in geography grew, I amassed a collection of atlases and other books related to geography. My other favourite was a world factbook that had a small dossier on each country. I remember discovering, much to my surprise, that various country borders shown in the 1998 factbook were different from the ones in my 1987 atlas. My curiosity about these changes led me to begin reading history books, and I soon learned the two fields complemented each other well.

I began to read newspapers, I read The Washington Post, The New York Times, and The Economist. My interest in geography also stimulated my interest in languages. After discovering that so many places had Spanish as their native tongue, I decided that learning the language was a necessity. And when I read about the increasing economic and political power of China in The Economist, I realized that knowledge of Mandarin Chinese would be a valuable skill.

Ever since I was very young, I loved reading. I have read many powerful and influential books that have helped shaped the way I look at the world, but none had been more important than my first atlas. I still return to it regularly and imagine I always will.

Summary Making

The tiger is the largest of all the cats. This wild mammal is found in some remote forests and rainforests in East Asia. At present, the tiger is an endangered species in the wild. There are many things we might do to save this animal. Tigers would survive if we stopped cutting the rainforests where they live. Creating natural reserves for this rare animal is another step that can help. Also, if biologists took care of the existing tigers, they would protect them. And if we all stopped illegal tiger trading, hunters wouldn't kill them. If we took these actions, the situation of this species would become better, and tigers wouldn't be in danger of extinction.

In a paragraph of FOUR sentences ONLY, summarise and paraphrase the passage above in answer to the following question:

Technology and science

Technology and science are progressing rapidly nowadays. They have made our life easier and more comfortable today. We have all the new technology to communicate with anyone in the world instantly.

We have faster means of communication such as our mobile phones and the internet. Someday, we may have flying cars. We will have some kinds of medicine that cure- all. Moreover, we will have smart clothes that will monitor our health and also will help also save lives.

On the other hand, technology has made us lazy and unfit. Children are getting out of shape because of spending long hours playing computer games. In addition, their studies have been negatively affected. Moreover, people don't visit each other as they used to before the invention of social media applications.j.com/kw

Finally, we have advantages and disadvantages of the progress of technology. So we can say that technology is a mixed blessing.

Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage, then answer the questions below:

La Tomatina is a food fight festival held on the last Wednesday of August each year in the town of Bunol in Spain. Thousands of people make their way from all corners of the world to fight in this 'World's Biggest Food Fight' during which crowds of people pelt each other with tons of tomatoes in the streets. The origins of this mass tomato fight dates back to a fight amongst children in 1945 and it has been celebrated every year since then.

The tomato fight lasts for an hour, after which the whole town is covered with tomato paste. After that, fire trucks with hoses move down to streets and people use the hoses to remove the tomato paste from their bodies. At the same time, other participants go to swimming pools to wash. After cleaning the town, streets become so clean due to the hard work of the fire trucks.

Since 2013, the Tomatina festival is planned by selling tickets to guarantee the better security and more fun for the attendants. In 2015, it is estimated that almost 145 tons of tomatoes were thrown. As with previous years, participants of many nationalities are expected.

The city council follows a short list of instructions for the safety of the participants and the festival. The tomatoes have to be squeezed before throwing to avoid injuries. No other *projectiles except tomatoes are allowed. Participants have to make way for trucks and Lorries. After the second shot indicative of ending the tomato throw, no tomatoes should be thrown.

La Tomatina festival has inspired similar celebrations in other parts of the world. Since 1982, in a town in Southern city of China, a tomato fight is held in October during which they use up to 15 tons of tomatoes. In February 2011, the first version of the Great Tomato War was held in Chile. It was a playful battle involving young people. In India, the government refused to give a permission to host such a Tomatina event justifying that tomato shouldn't be wasted.

*projectiles = missiles (an object which is thrown as a target)

Summary Making

Read the following text then do as required:

Some students fail because they are afraid of failing, of disappointing the many anxious adults around them, whose limitless hopes and expectations for them hang over their heads like a cloud. In addition, they are bored because the things they are given in schools are so dull. One of the most important reasons of students' failure is that they are confused because most of the torrent of words that pours over them in school makes no sense. Furthermore, school regulations might also affect their standards and cause them to fail. Finally, bad companions are a fundamental reason of students' failure.

Money Mixed Blessing المال

All of us know that in the modern world, money is very important to most people. Everyone needs money and everyone would like to be more wealthy or rich than he is.

Most people need to work because they need to pay for food, clothes and a home or place to live in. In the past people didn't have money to pay for the things they bought. They used to barter things. Today we have, not only money but also other forms of paying for the things we need. We can pay either by cash or by credit cards.

Some people believe that money is not always good. They say that money may sometimes be corrupting and leads to greed. Some people may commit crimes to get money. But good people work hard to get money. They also use money in good things.

Finally, They also help other people who need. It's truly said that money makes the world go round

Bank Manager مدير البنك

It's my dream to become a bank manager. But when I think of it, I find out that it is not as easy as some people may think. A good bank manager needs certain qualities to be successful. A bank manager needs more than a university degree to be successful.

When we talk about him we should mention many different things. To be successful, he needs to have good communication skills. He must be completely honest and trustworthy. No one can deny that a bank manager should also be able to show leadership. I mean to lead and direct his staff.

Moreover, He should also be able to motivate them when needed. As well as He should have the ability to deal with urgent situations. No doubts that He should be able to take decisions.

To sum up, I think I will enjoy working as a bank manager as long as I love my work.

Reading comprehension

Read the following passage and answer the questions that follow:

If you have been reading fairy stories, you may believe that all wolves are harmful, and evil. They eat children, sheep and other small animals. They are aggressive and won't stop until they get what they want. There really isn't anything good to say about wolves. Or is there? Are wolves just misunderstood?

Wolves are actually nothing like the characters described in fairy stories. While it is true that their diet consists of deer, rabbits, and other small animals, wolves would never attack a child just for the sake of eating. Wolves have been known to attack people when they threaten them. This happens only rarely. Wolves are usually pretty shy animals. They stay within their own land and protect their own pack(group).

Wolves are meat eaters, and they must hunt to get their food. They are strong and fast and have sharp teeth. They use their sense of smell to find prey. Wolves hunt in packs and chase their prey until it gets tired. They usually hunt the weakest, slowest animal in a group. Wolves are not cruel; they are just good hunters.

Some wolves, such as the red wolf, are near extinction. Their homes are steadily disappearing as people spread their own homes further into the wilderness. Wolves have also been hunted extensively. Ranchers and farmers pose another threat to wolves. They become angry when wolves come onto their property and eat their chickens and sheep. This is a serious problem, because the farmers lose their animals, and the wolves get shot by the angry farmers. No one wins in this battle.

Wolves are an important part of the balance of nature. They hunt weak animals and help keep down the population of some animals such as deer. In many countries, it is now against the law to hunt wolves. Many zoos and scientists are working hard to protect wolves, because they understand just how important and misunderstood they really are.

Summary making

In FOUR sentences, summarise and paraphrase the following passage in answer to the following question: (4 x 15 = 60 Marks)

As drivers, we have a responsibility on the road. Responsibility here involves a few things. It means that we must be careful on the road. Give way once in a while, be courteous and you will find driving a more pleasant experience. It is also our responsibility to ensure that our vehicles are in tip-top condition. Therefore, service your vehicles regularly, at least once in every six months. While driving on the road, keep to the speed limit all the time. It is also the duty of the police to organize road safety campaigns to educate and raise awareness among road users about the dangers of uncaring driving. Drivers who are caught breaking traffic rules should be punished or fined severely.

"What are the best ways to limit road accidents?"

القصص والقيم الأخلاقية Storytelling and moral lessons

Our parents are our first teachers. They used to give us care, love, help and advice. They used to tell us moral stories to benefit from them, especially before going to bed. Each story teaches us a moral lesson and values directly or indirectly.

As muslims, our Holy Quran is full of moral lessons and stories of messengers and previous nations. These stories improve our imagination and make us better people. Hence, we should follow the pieces of advice that are in those moral stories. Those are the lessons told to us by wise men and parents.

Moreover, we should teach such moral stories to our children as well. This will help change future generations to be good citizens. We can choose the right stories for each age group. This way they can get the lessons and apply them.

Finally, each people have their own culture and moral stories. Therefore, we should choose what suits our society, culture, and religion.

حوادث السيارات Car accidents

Car accidents are so dangerous because many people are involved in them. A lot of them are killed or injured seriously while many cars are lost or damaged. So, it is very important for us to learn how to use the roads properly and safely.

As roads are very busy nowadays, we should be very careful when crossing them. There are many causes of car accidents such as; over speed, bad roads, careless drivers, bad cars and their mechanical problems. Another cause of car accidents is not leaving enough space between cars while driving on the roads. Moreover, using the mobile phones is an important reason for car accidents today.

Then the question is, how could we avoid car accidents today? The answer is by building good roads at first. Moreover, we should fasten our seat belts and drive carefully. We shouldn't use mobile phones while driving and we should follow the traffic rules.

Finally, remember that over speed is the fastest way to death. Use your car wisely and be back home safely.

Reading Comprehension (110 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions:

What is more fun than jumping up and down on a springy piece of fabric?! This activity is known as trampolining and it is sweeping the world.

Throughout history, Eskimos have been tossing each other in the air using walrus skin for thousands of years. Firemen began using a life net to catch people jumping from buildings in 1887. And in the early 1900s, circus performers began bouncing to amuse audiences. All these show that the idea has been bouncing around for a long time.

Trampolines may be fun, but they can also be dangerous. People hurt themselves while using one each year. Clubs use large safety nets and rubber to make it safer. Most injuries of trampolines happen at home, not at clubs. Since they are more affordable than ever, injuries are even more common. How? People may bounce too high and land off the trampoline or onto the springs. Injuries also happen when many people are jumping at the same time. Jumpers may collide and cause one another to land in strange ways. Lots of people have their bones broken in this way. Perhaps the worst injuries happen when untrained people try to do flips. Landing on your neck or head can paralyze or even kill you.

But do not let all that bad news keep you down. There are many things that you can do to practise safe trampolining. You can cover the springs with special pads. You can surround your trampoline with a net so that people do not fall off of it. You can limit bouncers to one at a time. This will prevent collision injuries. Perhaps most importantly, you should never flip on a trampoline without professional guidance.

Trampolines have brought a lot of joy to many people. There is no feeling quite like soaring up in the air and then free-falling. Trampolines can also be a good source of exercise and activity. They can help people improve their balance and aerial moves. But they can also be deadly. Be sure that you are practising safety while having a good time. Happy bouncing!

A) From a, b, c and d, choose the correct answer:

1. What is the main idea of paragraph (2)?

4. According to the passage, why did circus performers start bouncing?

- a. To relax from stress.

Summary Making (4 X 15 = 60 Marks)

In a paragraph of FOUR sentences ONLY, summarise and paraphrase the following paragraph in an answer to the following question:

A small city was at the foot of a dormant volcano which, one day, erupted and covered the areas with ash and lava. Few people escaped, but unfortunately most of them were not so lucky. Those who decided to wait in their houses were buried to death. The gases poisoned a great number of the city dwellers. Some people could not make out of the area because of the ditches the eruption caused. Another cause of people's death was the destruction of all sources of life like the agricultural lands and the food factories. Whatever the reason was, we cannot say anything but: "May the dead rest in peace."

الرسائل Messages

Exchanging messages is very important. It helps people to be closer and to communicate. It helps people to know more about each other. It helps people to exchange news and information.

In the past, people used to send messages using fire, flags and drums especially in the time of wars. Then, they started to use horses and birds. People used town callers in sending and delivering messages. Furthermore, they used pigeons in sending messages in the past, such as in the First World War they used homing pigeons to send messages. People also used bottle messages to send messages in the middle of the sea when they were in danger.

Nowadays, there are many and different kinds in sending messages. We have smart mobile phones and social media applications. Also, we have the Internet, e-mails and the usual traditional letters. As man can't live a solitary life and needs to communicate, so he has always tried to find different ways to do so.

Finally, I think communication in all its forms is very important for people as it is a social healthy habit.

Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

Seventy percent of our planet is covered by one huge, continuous body of seawater – the ocean. It holds 1.35 billion cubic kilometres of water. Nearly half of the ocean is more than 3 kilometres deep. The Mariana Trench in the western Pacific Ocean is 11 kilometres below sea level. It is the deepest known point of the ocean. But there may be deeper points that we have not seen, as we have only explored five percent of the ocean floor to date.

The government of Canada suggested the idea of World Ocean Day at the Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro in 1992. In 2008, the United Nations (UN) officially recognised the date and it has been growing ever since, from 100 events in 2008 to over a thousand events in more than 120 countries ten years later. The day is celebrated in a variety of ways, including special events at aquariums and zoos, beach and river clean-ups, school activities, conservation programmes, art contests and film festivals.

One of the main aims of the day is to remind people of the important role the ocean plays in our lives. In fact, the ocean is home to the majority of plants and animals on Earth. The ocean provides us with food, 70 percent of the oxygen we breathe and medicines as well as transport. No matter where you live on the planet, no matter how far from the sea, your life relies on the ocean.

The most urgent problem facing the ocean at the moment is plastic pollution. Reducing one-use plastic, including plastic bags, sandwich boxes and plastic water bottles, has been an important theme for World Ocean Day for a number of years. Climate change and rising ocean temperatures are also a huge problem. Rising ocean temperatures have a direct influence on weather patterns. They are seen as partly responsible for an increase in extreme weather conditions.

On World Ocean Day, wear blue, go on a march, find a beach or river clean-up near you, organise a local event, print a poster and put it in your window, or use the hashtag #worldoceanday on social media.

VI- Reading Comprehension (80 Marks)

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

How many things can you see in the night sky? On a clear night you might see the Moon, some planets and thousands of sparkling stars. You can see even more with a telescope. You might see stars where before you only saw dark space. With bigger and bigger telescopes you can see more and more objects in the sky. And you can see those objects in more and more detail.

But scientists believe that there are some things in the sky that we will never see even with almanahi.com/kw the biggest telescope in the world. That is because they are invisible and mysterious. They are dead stars which are called black holes. You might find it hard to imagine that stars die. After all, our Sun is a star. Year after year we see it up in the sky, burning brightly, giving us heat and light. The Sun certainly doesn't seem to be getting old or weak. But stars do burn out and die after billions of years.

As a star's gases burn, they give off light and heat. But when the gas runs out, the star stops burning and begins to die. As the star cools, the outer layers of the star pull in toward the center. The star squashes into a smaller and smaller ball. If the star is very small, it ends up as a cold, dark ball called a black dwarf. If the star is very big, it becomes lesser and lesser until it's packed together tighter than anything else in the universe.

Imagine if the Earth were crushed until it was the size of a tiny marble. That's how tightly this dead star, a black hole, is packed. What pulls the star in toward its center with such power? It's the same force that pulls you down when you jump - the force called gravity. A black hole is so tightly packed that its gravity sucks in everything even light. The light from a black hole can never come back to your eyes. That's why you see nothing but blackness. So the next time you stare up at the night sky, remember: there's more in the sky than meets the eye!

Harsh conditions in deserts, especially the lack of water, don't allow many living things from living in these places. However, there are some annual plants, which through their wonderful ways, have managed to survive these difficult conditions. One way is that they usually depend on their extremely short, active life cycles. In events of sudden rain, the plant seeds breed and grow very quickly to make full use of the rainwater. Then, their flowers bloom and set seeds that grow quickly in the hot sun, too. In addition, such plants usually have special means of storing water.
