VI- Reading Comprehension (110 Marks)Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions that follow:

110

Many things in life come down to whether you have the time or the money. Helping people is no different, and anyone will eventually find themselves questioning whether it is better to donate to a charity or volunteer. Simply, if you have the money and not the time, give to a charity, but if you have time and not as much money, choose to volunteer.

For people who don't have the time to volunteer, donating money is more convenient. This could include anyone working full-time or parents with young children. Whatever the situation, sometimes your commitments at home are just more important.

You've probably heard people say time is money, and it's true -they are both equally valuable. By joining a volunteer project or donating money, you can make a real difference to those in need. Volunteering can help you achieve your personal goals through the benefit of experience. It can lead not only to great personal satisfaction but also to respect and appreciation from others in the local community.

Acting as ambassadors for their countries, volunteers working in cultures and societies different from their own can create understanding and tolerance among people of different cultures. By giving their time and volunteering abroad, they are effectively helping cross those cultural bridges thrown up by distance.

Volunteering saves lives, both the lives of the people you help and yours as well. With more people in traditional desk jobs, we live a more inactive lifestyle than ever before. The risks associated with less daily movement include back pain, obesity, more stress. When we volunteer, we still get up and get moving. You could even choose to volunteer for causes or programmes that make you more active, such as with youth sports programmes or national parks. Old volunteers benefit the most from getting out of the house, engaging with others, and moving physically. For this age group, purpose and collaboration result in mental health improvements and a better outlook on life.

In conclusion, given the benefits of both volunteering and donating money, I would argue that an individual should make their own choice based on their personal preferences. What is important is that we continue to give to those who are more in need than ourselves.

A) From a, b, c and d choose the correct answer: (5x 10=50 Marks)

27. What best expresses the main idea of the passage?
- a- What matters is helping others.
 - b- What is worth doing is working full-time.

 - d- responsibilities
29. What does the underlined word “they” in the 4th paragraph refer to?
- a- countries
 - b- cultures
 - c- volunteers
 - d- societies
30. What can be inferred from the expression “time is money” as used in the 3rd paragraph?
- a- Making money is every person’s goal.
 - b- Volunteering is less important than donating money.
 - c- Donating time is as important as donating money.
 - d- Donating money to charities is highly recommended.
31. With reference to the 3rd paragraph, which of the following is NOT mentioned as a benefit of volunteering?
- a- It can help you reach your personal goals.
 - b- It helps you gain confidence.
 - c- It leads to great personal satisfaction.
 - d- It makes you respected by the local community.

B) With reference to the passage, answer the following questions: (4 x15= 60 Marks)

Any reasonable answer related to the text is acceptable.

VII- Summary Making 60 Marks)

Read the following passage, then do as required:

‘Many a small thing has been made large by the right kind of advertising.’ Advertising is a means of communication with the users of a product or a service. It is intended to influence and inform people. It affects our major various decisions about buying in a number of ways. Advertising, however, has disadvantages. First, it creates a fake demand for things which we do not need. Moreover, some advertisers cleverly create misleading impressions of their goods. In addition, they present very rosy pictures of their products with the aim of increasing their sales. In reality, their items might be of low quality. Also, Advertising also forces us to buy costly things. Finally, it creates conflicts in the family when our young members want such goods which we cannot afford.

In a paragraph of FOUR sentences ONLY, summarise and paraphrase the passage above in answer to the following question: (60 Marks)

What are the disadvantages of advertising?

Your paragraph must include FOUR of the following ideas:

- Create false demand
- Create misleading impressions
- Create rosy pictures
- Force to buy costly things
- Create conflicts in the family
