"Last week, my father decided to retire from his job."

Your writing should be clear and well-organised.

Last week, my father decided to retire from his job. First, He was born in Suhar with his family. He went to school and studied very hard. He was a good and hardworking student. Then, he went to university and got a degree. He travelled a board and learned new language. After that, he became a manager in a big company. He worked for many years. He got married and had children. Then, he retired. Finally, he felt happy, proud and successful of his life.

EXAMPLES OF NARRATIVE WRITING

Your teacher asked you to write a story entitled "An Enjoyable Journey".

Explain:

When and Where?

Who was in the journey?

What happened?

Why it was wonderful

Feeling?

Have you ever had visited a place with your family and spent a nice time with them? That's exactly what happened with Ahmed and his Family when he decided to take his family to Salalah.

It started one sunny, hot day in the last summer holiday when Ahmed surprised his family to go on a trip to Salalah. All the family was excited and happy. They started preparing their stuff taking everything they needed. The trip was by plane, and that's what made it more fantastic because it was their first time to go by plane. Two days later, it was the tie for their trip, so they took everything and went to the airport. The flight was smooth and comfortable. We arrived at Salalah Airport in the evening, and luckily Ahmed had already rented a car and booked a flat for them in the city. They immediately went to the flat and organized their stuff there. On day one, Ahmed and his family went to Darbat. It was really an amazing place with the nice weather. The family enjoyed their time there cooking lunch, chatting and having some other activities. The next day, they went to Sahal Eteen where they had a nice time chatting together. After that, they went to the festival and had fun there till the evening. Ahmed and his family stayed there for six days. They wished they had stayed longer because everything was joyful and fantastic.

Ahmed and his family returned home after a wonderful holiday in Salalah. It was really an amazing trip with the family. All felt happy and pleased.

Your teacher asked you to write a story entitled "A Memorable Day" (Nightmare Meal). Write a story that ends in a disaster. Explain:

When and Where?

Who was in the journey?

What happened?

Why it was horrible

Feeling?

Personally I'm not a fan of eating outdoors, but I couldn't refuse my family's request when they decided to go for dinner in a fine restaurant. It was last week with my family told me that they had booked a 5-star restaurant for dinner. I agreed to go when I saw everybody was excited.

We prepared ourselves and went to the restaurant. We were chatting happily, expecting everything would be perfect since we had reserved a 5-star restaurant. Unfortunately the opposite was true. First we arrived five minutes before the booking. Our table was not yet empty. We had to wait for 20 minutes. Then, we went to our table, we were shocked it was only for four persons and we booked for seven. That was really frustrating because we had to wait another ten minutes to have an empty table. It wasn't only that. Sadly, the food was not delicious. We had to wait for a long time between courses. On top of that, the bill was too expensive for such dinner.

After such horrible dinner, we returned home frustrated for this bad experience. As an Advice for you, you need to make sure of the restaurant before you book for you and your family

Modal of Narrative Writing (2)

Write a story of at least 100 words based on the following topic.

Imagine that you travelled abroad to spend your summer holiday. In a restaurant you met a celebrity whom you didn't expect to see there.

Tell us where you went, whom you met and what happened. Your story should be lively and interesting.

Last year in my summer holiday, I travelled to Egypt with a friend. We visited many beautiful places in Cairo. One day, my friend suggested to have lunch in a traditional Egyptian restaurant in Al-Hosain. We took a taxi to Al-Hosain.

When we arrived at the restaurant the smell of the food was attractive. The waiter brought us the menu. "What would you like to eat, sir? he asked. My friend ordered fish with rice. "Bring me bread with fried chicken, please." I replied.

Later, a man with two body guards arrived. "Isn't that man the famous Egyptian actor Adil Emam?" I asked. "Yes, he is." my friend said. The famous man sat at the table opposite to us. His two guards stood behind him. I left my seat and went to meet the celebrity. He was very friendly and he welcomed me kindly. I asked him about his future works and he answered me. We talked and he told me some jokes.

After a while, I asked Adil Emam if I can take a selfie with him. I took the selfie and it was interesting. "If you need any help please tell me." Adil Emam said. "Thank you, Mr. Adil." I said "We are between our hospitable Egyptian people." "Where do you come from?" Adil asked. "We are from Oman." He was happy to know that we were Omanis.

Finally, my friend and I left the restaurant joyfully. Later I sent the photo to my friends and they were surprised to see me with that popular celebrity.

WRITING 2 (5 marks)

Complete the following task. Write at least 80 words.

Write a story about your (trip to a famous country) last summer holiday.

Your writing should be clear and well-organised.

Last summer, I went on a trip to France with my family. First, we booked our plane tickets online. I was very excited because it was my first visit to France. Then, we packed our suitcases with clothes, hats, cameras and important things. On the day of the trip, we went to the airport early and checked in. My brother and I were looking out of the airplane window the whole flight. After that, we arrived in Paris and went straight to our hotel to rest for a while. Later, we visited the Eiffel Tower. I said, "Wow! It is a very tall building!" We took many photos and enjoyed the view. We also walked along the streets, visited small shops near the city square, and tasted French pastries at a local bakery. Finally, we took a boat ride on the Seine River and bought souvenirs before heading back to our hotel. I felt very happy because it was an amazing experience, and I will never forget it.

Write a story about a trip you had when something bad happened. Give it the title "The bad trip I have ever had" Include details such as:

Where you went?

Who was with you?

Why was it bad?

The bad things that happened

Wat did you learn from this situation?

One sunny hot day, my classmates decided to go on a picnic in the mountains at the weekend. They asked me to join them. "I will ask my father." I said.

When I met my father, I told him that I want to go with my classmates to the mountains. "Ok Ahmed." He said "but don't practice dangerous activities there."

The next day, we rode our bikes and began our trip. When we arrived there, we set up the tent. Then we collected some wood for the fire. Some of my friends made tea.

Later, one of my classmates said "Come with me Ahmed to look for beehives in those caves." "No, I am not good at climbing mountains." I replied. He insisted to go with him. without thinking, I agreed to join him.

We started climbing a high mountain. We moved from cave to another looking for bee colonies. At least, we saw a small cave at a top of a mountain. I refused to continue climbing but my friend said " Be brave! we can reach there easily."

We climbed for more than twenty minutes. We walked slowly and carefully through the rocky steep slope path. Before we reached the cave, I had slipped and fell down.

After four days, I came out of the coma in the intensive care unit room. There were my parents and uncles around my bed. They were very happy when I opened my eyes. I could see the blaming looks on my father's face.

That situation taught me to listen carefully to what my parents say and to obey them. They are only the persons who take care of us.

Write a story of at least 100 words based on the following topic.

"My First Day at New School"

Your story should be lively and interesting.

Three years ago, I finished my summer holiday and I had to start grade 10 in a new post basic school. My previous cycle two school was small and less than 300 students were studying at that school.

When I arrived at my new school, I really was shocked. The number of students made me surprised. An increasing number of strange students were crowding the school. It was my first time to see those new students with different behaviours and from various villages.

The number of new teachers was big too. I used to see less than 25 teachers in my previous school, but they were more than 80 teachers in my new school from different nationalities. Everything looked strange for me. The building itself was massive and scary.

I tried to cope and adapt myself to the new situation. I didn't sit alone but I started to discover the new school environment and to talk to some students who were surprised too. We made a group and we did an inspection tour in the school.

During that first day I began to feel more confident and comfortable. With the support of my new friends and classmates I could avoid my worry. I started to memorize the names of some teachers and I chat with some of them. That first day was the most memorable experience in my life.

Ahmed was a grade 12 student. He studies Engineering in the UK now.

Write a story about Ahmed. What did he do before travelling abroad? How could he cope with home sickness?

Your story should be lively and interesting.

Two years ago, Ahmed got a good result in grade 12 final exams. Therefore, he was granted a full scholarship by the government to study engineering in UK.

Ahmed prepared well before he left Oman. First, he looked for people who had studied in the same town and he also read the website of the university that he was going to study in. He read about the accommodation, transport, services, sports and the town itself. Furthermore, Ahmed bought the main things that he would need there such as new clothes and a camera. He involved his family and friends in planning his trip.

His first month in the UK was very difficult. He felt with homesickness and he missed his family and friends. However, he coped with that by trying to discover the town and learning about the new culture.

Ahmed also focused more on his new life by doing own tasks such as washing and ironing his clothes. He looked for anew circle of good friends. He also focused more on his new life by doing things like washing and ironing his clothes. He looked for anew circle of good friends.

Your story should be lively and interesting.

One cold day last winter, my best friend Ali suggested to go camping in a nearby wadi. 'Let's us go camping tomorrow.' He said. "That's a good idea." I replied.

So, we went shopping and we bought some items for making tea and some food stuff for preparing the meals. We were very enthusiastic.

The next morning, we rode our bikes to the wadi. When we arrived there, we had pitched the tent. "It's colder here than the town." My friend said. "I agree with you." I replied.

Before we discovered the place, we had prepared the tea. We drank our tea and walked along the wadi and collected some wood for the fire. Then we returned to our camp after a long walk.

"Let's go mountain biking." I said. "Let's do that after lunch." Said my friend. "I prefer to go now. I replied. My friend refused to go with me and said "We will be late for preparing the lunch." "I will stay here in order to cook the lunch." So, I insisted to go mountain biking without my friend.

I rode my bike and started my journey through the narrow rocky gaps and over rocks. While I was cycling to the top of a mountain, I lost the control of my bike. I hit my head on a rock. Unfortunately, I was not wearing my safety helmet at that time. So, I had had a bad injury on my head.

My friend realized that something wrong might had happened to me. He decided to look for me. After a long time of searching, he found me unconscious. He carried me on his shoulder and ran for a long distance to the main road.

A car stopped and took us to the hospital in our town. I had lost too much blood. My friend donated blood and he stayed all the next three days with me in the hospital.

From that story, I recognized the real meaning of loyalty and the good friend s

Write about a place that you visited. What happened and what you did?

Your story should be lively and interesting.

Last summer holiday my family and I went to Salalah. My father was driving the car when we had a tire puncture.

A police car came and some policemen helped my father to change the tire. My father thanked the policemen. We arrived in Salalah in the evening.

The next day my father took us to Wadi Darbat. While I was walking along the wadi, I saw a boy in the wadi. The boy was drowning.

I called the police and immediately the Civil Defence arrived to the site. The civil defence men rescued the boy. The civil defence men and the boy's family thanked me.

One day my school decided to organize a trip for my class to the beach. When I returned home, I asked my father to give me the permission to go with my classmates.

My father agreed and he said " Ok! but please don't swim in the sea because you are not able to swim."

The next day the school bus took us to the beach. We walked and spent a nice time there and we were happy. Some of my classmates asked me to go swimming in the sea. I refused. " I can't swim well." I said.

My friends laughed at me and said " You are a coward boy." I was very embarrassed and shy. They continued asking me to join them. I tried to convince them but they strongly insisted. " Ok friends. Let's go. " I said.

We started swimming. The sea was too rough. I couldn't remember anything but later I found myself in the hospital. " What happened? I asked. My parents were near my head. They were very worried." This is the result for anyone who doesn't listen to his parents' advice. "my mother said.

From that situation, I learned that we must obey our parents because they always do good and useful things to us.

Four weeks ago, a was walking home after mid night when I saw three strange people standing outside a bank. I really suspected them and thought for a moment that they might be robbers. I immediately called the police and I directed them to the place.

Suddenly, one of the three men started screaming. He was in pain of an illness. The other two men were trying to comfort him. "We have been waiting for a car for twenty minutes." one of them said sadly.

I was completely embarrassed when I recognized that those three men were not thieves. The police arrived and arrested the three men. "Our friend has a stomach ache." one man said. "We are students and we stay in this building."

I walked to them. "I am the person who called you. I am really sorry and shy." I said. "No, you are not." a policeman said. "You brought us here in good time to rescue this man."

The police decided to help the three men. They gave them a lift to the hospital. For me, I learned that I must not judge someone without knowing the whole story.
