Last summer, I travelled with my family to Salalah in southern Oman. We started preparing one week before our trip. My father booked the plane tickets online and reserved a room at a hotel near the beach. My mother packed our clothes, camera, and snacks carefully in the suitcases.

in the morning , we went to the airport early, checked in, and waited at the gate. The flight took about two hours, and the view from the plane was amazing — we could see mountains and clouds below us.

When we arrived to Salalah, a taxi took us to our hotel, where we stayed for five days. The staff were kind and the rooms were clean and comfortable. Every day, we visited a new place: Wadi Darbat, Al Mughsail Beach, and the Frankincense Land Museum.

We also tried delicious local food and bought souvenirs from small markets. In the evenings, we walked by the sea and enjoyed the cool weather. The whole experience was relaxing and full of adventure.

When the trip ended, we packed our bags again and flew back home, feeling happy and thankful for such a beautiful journey.
