Living in a city in Britain has both advantages and disadvantages. One advantage is it is often easier to find work. There is usually a choice of public transport, so you do not need to own a car. Also, there are a lot of interesting things to do and places to see. For example, you can eat in good restaurants, visit museums, and go to the theatre. Moreover, when you want to relax, you can usually find a park where you can sit on the park bench and read a book. City life is full of varieties, and you need never feel bored. However, there are disadvantages. For instance, you might not be able to afford many things because living in a city is expensive. It is difficult to find good and cheap accommodation. Moreover, public transport is sometimes crowded and dirty and even the parks can become very crowded, especially on Sundays. Despite all the crowds, it is still possible to feel very lonely in a city. In conclusion, I think city life can be suitable for young people, who like enjoyment and do not mind the noise and pollution. However, many people when they get older often prefer to live in the countryside.

The term zoo is a common abbreviation for "zoological garden", an establishment that maintains a collection of wild animals. Today, zoos can be found in almost every country in the world. There are several benefits of keeping animals in zoos. To start with, one benefit of keeping animals in zoos is education. To the scientist, animals are valuable for scientific research, the scientist can observe animals' natural habits safely and easily in zoos. To educate the public, zoos are the most convenient way to see animals at a close distance. Also, animals in zoos have less chance to fight for food or area because everything is available for them. Also, a system of breeding in zoos makes them important places for animals' survival. Overall, keeping animals in zoos can benefit society since it helps to protect the animal's life. On the other hand, there are some disadvantages. The small place they have been kept affects their natural behaviour, they will become lazy since the zookeepers take care of them. Also, zoo animals may suffer health problems in the environment. In zoos, animals only have a restricted place to move. Finally, animals should not be kept in zoos because it is their right.

I also saw the prison where famous people, including a queen of England, Anne Boleyn, were punished. On Monday morning, I had a trip to the British Museum. I wanted to see the Elgin marbles. Sadly, when I arrived, the Elgin rooms were closed, but there was plenty other stuff to see. On Monday evening, I went to a comedy show called "The Windsor's", but I didn't find it funny, so I left soon. later I went to eat fish and chips. The weather was fine, so I decided to walk along the river Thames. I saw some famous sites. There are many Roman remains in London. People were friendly and helpful. I had a great stay in London. There are many great inventions in our life. They make our life easier. One of the great inventions I really like is cars. In my opinion, Cars are great invention because they help us to move easily.

Cars have a long history. There are many different types of cars such as steam, electric, and gasoline cars. Karl Benz invented and designed the first car in 1886. He was from Germany. However, there were many tries before to make cars; For example, Nicolas-Joseph invented the first steam vehicle for the French army in 1769.

From 1832-1839, Robert Anderson made the first electric vehicle in Scotland. In the past, there weren't many cars and only few people had them. They were also too expensive. Today, we have different companies of cars such as Mercedes, Toyota, Ford, Honda and others.

Cars now are cheaper and have different sizes and colours. However, cars cause air pollution because they use petrol. As a result, many car companies try to invent cars, which use electricity instead. Many tries succeeded and we heard about electric cars and cars that work by solar system.

To sum up I think that even though companies try to reduce the number of cars that use petrol, we will need more time to have cheap electrical cars.

Nowadays, many people prefer to eat in restaurants or order ready-made food online because they are too busy with their jobs. They don't have time to prepare or cook their food or wash dishes.

Personally, I think eating at home is much healthier. If you cook food at home, you will often buy fresh ingredients instead of eating the frozen food served in restaurants. You can also control the amount of food you eat. While in a restaurant, you may eat a full plate of food just because you paid for it.

Preparing food at home is also safer and healthier for children. Unlike adults and old people, small children can become easily ill because of the poor quality of food. They may have stomach-ache. Moreover, according to some reports and studies, 55 % of teenagers in Kuwait are overweight because they eat lots of fast food at restaurants.

Eating in a restaurant also costs a lot of money. Most of the good meals are expensive. So, it would be difficult for poor families to pay for it.

In conclusion, I prefer cooking at home because it is healthy and it saves money, but people will make the choice that fits their lifestyle.

Most of the countries in the world have zoos to protect special species, animals, and natural life. One example is Mihintale Wildlife Zoo in Sri Lanka which is the first zoo in the world. I think that zoos play an important role and are very good for many reasons.

First, Zoos help protect wildlife. Unfortunately, many animal species are about to become extinct and disappear because people destroy their natural habitats and environment. So, zoos provide a safe place for wildlife to live and grow.

Second, Zoos provide a good environment for the animals. They are similar to their real environment, so animals will live as if they were outside in the wild. Zookeepers will help observe and watch them to make sure the animals are safe.

Third, zoos are good for the economy as they help raise money needed to spend on the zoos. Local people and tourists must pay money to visit zoos and enjoy their time. Also, zoos help create more jobs for young people such as tour guides, researchers, and animal and plant specialists.

In short, zoos serve as a habitat for different animals, birds, and plants. They also help protect endangered animals from hunters and other dangers.
