School hobby clubs

School hobby clubs give students a chance to explore their interests and spend time with others. Some clubs focus on active hobbies, such as running or volleyball. Others offer quieter activities, including drawing, reading and making models. Students can choose a club that suits their personality or try something completely new.

At one school, the hobby clubs meet every Tuesday afternoon after lessons. Each meeting lasts one hour. Students join for four weeks before deciding whether to continue or change their activity. This gives beginners enough time to learn basic skills without making a long commitment.

The art club meets in a bright classroom beside the library. The school provides paper, pencils and paints, so students do not need to buy materials. Members sometimes work alone, but they also create pictures in pairs. Their finished work is displayed in the school hall.

The drama club is popular with students who enjoy stories. Members practise speaking clearly and acting in small groups. Students who feel shy can begin with a short part. Their teacher helps them prepare, and they can use notes during practice. Nobody has to perform alone at the first meeting.

Choosing a club is a personal decision. Friends do not always need to join the same activity. A student who loves sport may also enjoy painting, while a quiet student may become a confident actor. Trying different hobbies can help young people discover abilities they did not know they had. Club leaders therefore encourage students to ask questions and choose an activity that interests them.

1. When do the school hobby clubs meet?

2. How long does each meeting last?

3. Where does the art club meet?

4. Why do art club members not need to buy materials?

5. How can shy students begin in the drama club?

Text 1 (42 words)

My favourite hobby is taking photographs. At weekends, I walk around our village with my camera. My brother likes drawing, but I prefer real pictures of people and places. Last Friday, I took some photos of my grandfather working in his garden.

Text 2 (43 words)

I used to feel shy when I met new people. Now I attend a school drama club every Tuesday. Acting with other students helps me speak more confidently. I enjoy telling funny stories on stage, although I still feel nervous before each performance.

Text 3 (43 words)

My friends and I enjoy playing volleyball after school. We usually meet on the school field on Mondays. Today, the field is closed, so we are practising in the sports hall instead. Our teacher has brought a net and enough balls for everyone.

Text 4 (43 words)

I am making a birthday present for my younger sister. She enjoys music, but she already has a guitar. She also likes reading stories, so I am making a colourful bookmark for her. I hope she will use it in her favourite book.

Text 5 (43 words)

Our class is preparing a hobbies display. I am bringing a model boat because I enjoy making things with my hands. Sara will bring her paintings, and the twins will show their photographs. We want everyone to discover something new about their classmates.
