Reading

A shepherd boy guarded his master's sheep near a dark forest not far from the village. Soon he found life in the fields very dull. All he could do for fun was to talk to his dog or play on his shepherd's pipe. One day as he sat watching the sheep and the quiet forest, he thought of a plan to amuse himself. His master had told him to call for help if a wolf attacked the flock of sheep, and the villagers would help him scare it away.

So now, even though he had not seen anything that looked like a wolf, he ran towards the village shouting, "Wolf! Wolf!" The villagers all stopped their work and ran to help in the fields. But when they got there, they found the boy laughing loudly at the trick he had played on them. A few days later, the shepherd boy again shouted, "Wolf! Wolf!" Again, the villagers ran to help him, only to be laughed at again.

Then one evening as the sun was setting behind the forest and the shadows were creeping out over the fields; a wolf sprang from behind a bush and attacked the sheep. In terror, the boy ran towards the village shouting "Wolf! Wolf!" But though the villagers heard him shout, they ignored him. "He cannot trick us again," they said to each other. The wolf killed a lot of sheep and then disappeared into the forest. The boy's master was very angry with him and fired him, and no one ever believed the boy again.
