Reading Comprehension:

Directions:

Read the passage and answer the questions.

Many people would agree that smoking is a drug and is highly addictive. Smoking can actually do more damage to your body than you think it can. Smoking needs to be stopped and I am here to tell you why.

First, you are in charge of your health. You might choose the unhealthy choice and that's fine! Unfortunately, smoking also affects others. Did you know that when you're smoking, your children can inhale your smoke and could get sick without even knowing? This is called passive smoking.

Secondly, why would you pay an amount of money for a pack of cigarettes? Cigarettes are harmful and are a disgrace; they cause bad breath, they are a bad, filthy habit and they make you look unattractive. Do you really want to be a bad role model to children? So why do you buy them?

Finally, and most importantly, smoking will increase your chances of cancer or other sicknesses and may cost you your life. Imagine that, you're buying a cigarette packet, and exchanging your life for it! Furthermore, it has been known that mothers who smoke during pregnancy increase the chance of their children being affected, and even being born with disabilities.

In conclusion, smoking is bad for your health. We can prevent smoking in the future by setting the standard that smoking is deadly and is not accepted. Hopefully our future generations will grow up knowing that smoking is not normal, and this advice might help reduce the total number of smokers and deaths caused by cigarettes and tobacco.

Read the passage and answer the questions.

Pasta is a type of food typically made from an unleavened dough of durum wheat flour (semolina) mixed with water or eggs, and formed into sheets or various shapes, then cooked by boiling or baking. Rice flour, or legumes such as beans or lentils, are sometimes used in place of wheat flour to yield a different taste and texture, or as a gluten-free alternative. Pasta is a staple food of Italian cuisine.

Pastas are divided into two broad categories: dried (pasta secca) and fresh (pasta fresca). Most dried pasta is produced commercially via an extrusion process, although it can be produced at home. Fresh pasta is traditionally produced by hand, sometimes with the aid of simple machines. Fresh pastas available in grocery stores are produced commercially by large-scale machines.

Both dried and fresh pastas come in several shapes and varieties, with 310 specific forms known by over 1300 documented names. In Italy, the names of specific pasta shapes or types often vary by locale. For example, the pasta form cavatelli is known by 28 different names depending upon the town and region. Common forms of pasta include long and short shapes, tubes, flat shapes or sheets, miniature shapes for soup, those meant to be filled or stuffed, and specialty or decorative shapes.

In terms of nutrition, cooked plain pasta is 31% carbohydrates (mostly starch), 6% protein, and low in fat, with moderate amounts of manganese, but pasta generally has low micronutrient content. Pasta may be enriched or fortified, or made from whole grains.
