II- Comprehension

❖ Read the following passage carefully the answer the questions below:

Computers and the Internet

Over the past twenty years, computers and the internet have become more and more important to us. In fact, depending on computer technology continues to grow every day. We seem to use computers for almost everything these days, in shopping, driving our car or communicating with relatives and friends.

This explosion in computer technology has resulted in a rush to install computers in every classroom and to connect every school to the Internet. In the USA, between 1984 and 1997 the number of computers in secondary schools increased to more than 8 million. Both teachers and students alike have been forced to keep up with this new wave of technology.

Few people would question the role that computers could play in education. Some teachers say that if students take the opportunity to use them in a classroom, they will get better grades than those who learn without using any computers. These people say that just as computer technology has improved the way cars work, computers will make the classroom a better place to teach concepts and ideas that students need to become brighter and more successful adults.
