7

A. Read the following text, then answer the questions below.

Every Friday, Leen visits her grandmother after school. She loves these visits because her grandmother always cooks a special dish. It is a warm vegetable soup that Leen has loved since she was a little girl.

One Friday, Leen arrived feeling tired and sad after a long day at school. She forgot her lunch at home. Her grandmother noticed and gave her a big hug. "Don't worry, Leen," she said. "I made your favorite soup today." Leen sat at the kitchen table and watched her grandmother stir the pot. The smell of carrots, potatoes, and fresh spices filled the room making Leen feel better. When the soup was ready, her grandmother served it in a new blue bowl. The first spoonful was warm and delicious. After finishing the soup, Leen felt full, happy and calm. She told her grandmother about her day at school.

"Good food helps the body," her grandmother said, "but love helps the heart." Leen smiled, knowing her grandmother was right. From then on, whenever Leen felt tired, she remembered the taste of the warm soup and the love behind it.
