Eid Celebrations

Eid Al-Fitr is a Muslim holiday that marks the end of Ramadan. It is the most widely celebrated holiday in the Islamic calendar. The day begins with a light snack, usually dates, and the Eid prayer. People often decorate their homes and cook festive meals for family and friends. Older members of the family offer money to children.

Many store owners offer a special Eid gift to customers to show their generosity. Everyone does their best to be kind and generous to others, especially to those who are in need. At the end of Ramadan, Muslims donate food (such as dates and rice) to the poor. This is called Zakat Al-Fitr. In some areas, neighbors place large rugs on the street. Then, each family brings a meal to share with their neighbors.

Another important celebration is Eid Al-Adha. To celebrate Eid Al-Adha, Muslims all over the world sacrifice an animal. Depending on the region, they sacrifice a lamb, a goat, a camel, or a cow. The family shares the meal with friends and donates some to the poor.

Families get together for a special meal, visit friends and neighbors, and exchange gifts.

Chocolates have become an international delicacy. They are very popular in Saudi Arabia and a lot of them are sold during Eid Al-Fitr to people who want to offer them as gifts to friends and relatives.

Teaching Tip

Individual class presentations are good experience for students, but can be boring for the class when there are too many. To avoid this, schedule presentations on different days rather than all on one day, or have students present to a group. Also, give the other students a task while they are listening. For example: Write two questions to ask the presenter.

Additional Activity

Play Categories. Make a chart with five columns and six rows. Write a category in the top line of each column. For example: rooms in a house; objects in a house; school subjects; clothing. Put students in groups and give each group one copy of the chart. The first group to write five words in each category wins.

Project: Celebrate!

Have students work in groups to plan an end-of-term / end-of-year celebration. What special activities are there going to be? What special foods are people going to eat? When is it going to be? Have students present their plans to the class.
