Gerunds after Verbs

Gerunds are the -ing form of a verb. They act like nouns and answer the question what.

I recommend playing basketball as a hobby.

He enjoys skateboarding in the park.

We use gerunds after certain verbs and phrases, such as:

can't stand	feel like	love	spend time
dislike	hate	prefer	suggest
enjoy	like	recommend

Infinitives after Verbs

An infinitive is to + the base form of a verb. Like gerunds, infinitives act like nouns and answer the question what. The verbs like, love, hate, and prefer can go with either a gerund or an infinitive.

I like to watch TV, but I prefer to play games online.

We use infinitives after certain verbs and phrases, such as:

hate	like	prefer	would like
hope	love	want	would love

Read the explanation and the examples at the top of the chart.

Read the list of verbs .

Look at the following sentence starters

Complete them with gerunds.

I dislike _____.
I can't stand _____.
I recommend _____.
I suggest _____.
I feel like _____.

to + Verb

The infinitives can also be used as nouns.
Read the explanation and examples in the chart.
Look at the following sentences starters on the board and complete them.

I would like to _____.
I would love to _____.
I hope to _____.

Some verbs can be followed by either an infinitive or a gerund.
The meaning of sentences with these verbs is almost the same.
for example:

I love reading books or I love to read books.

One slight difference is that the person is more likely to use the gerund at the moment of doing the activity.

You can't memorize these lists of verbs.

But as you hear and practice sentences with gerunds or infinitives, you will naturally begin to get accustomed to them and develop a sense of which form to use.
