The end

Language Builder

Remind students of the different meanings for fall in the presentation; for example, the verb fall, as in the sentence about Chicago (Temperatures often fall below zero Celsius); and the noun fall, which means the same as autumn.

Teaching Tip

When teaching new vocabulary, make sure students are aware of the part of speech (noun, adjective, verb, etc.). Encourage students to expand their vocabulary by learning the derived forms of the new word; for example, the noun humidity and the adjective humid.

Additional Activity

Draw a three-column chart on the board with the headings: Nouns, Adjectives, and Verbs. Have students copy the chart in their notebooks and in pairs write each weather word from the presentation in the correct column. Then have them add other weather words they know. They may want to know how to say certain words in English. Before providing the answer, see if other students know the word in English.
