العامية

The infinitive to is blended together with the word that follows it so that the two words sound like one word.

Listen. Notice how to is reduced and pronounced quickly. Then practice.

It's polite to shake hands.

It's impolite to stare at someone.

It's advisable to study the customs.

It's common to exchange business cards.

7 About You

1. What dos and don'ts do you know about for different countries? What are some cultural differences you know about?
2. Are there different customs in different parts of your country? What are the differences?
3. Have you ever lived or traveled abroad? Did you have any difficulty in adjusting?
4. Have you ever had a problem because of a cultural difference? Explain.
5. What are common gestures in your culture? What do they mean?

1. There are cultural difference among countries for example in Americans usually shake hands when they first meet people and business acquaintances. They greet others by making eye contact and smiling, and it is also common to introduce people using first names.
2. Yes, there are.
3. Yes, I have. Yes, I found some difficulty at first but with time I have adjusted.
4. Yes, I have. I made a gestures with my finger which is accepted in my country but was offensive in that country.
5. Moving your chin back and making a clicking noise with your tongue means "no".
Leaning your head back with your chin and eyebrows raised also means "no".
Tilting your head to the side with a smile usually means "yes".
Placing your right hand on your heart is a warm way to greet someone.

▲ Shanghai, China

Will: So, what's it like living and working in China?

Edgar: Well, to be honest, in today's globalized world, there isn't really all that much difference anymore, especially in big cities like Shanghai, where I'm based. There's a lot of traffic, crowded subways and buses, tall skyscrapers, and modern shopping malls just like in other large cities around the world.

Will: Have any differences struck you?

Edgar: Well, the food is very different, and eating with chopsticks was tricky at first, especially rice and noodles. But I got the hang of it.

Will: What about the language?

Edgar: Most of the people I work with speak English well. I'm still learning Chinese to handle everyday situations.

Will: Is there anything else you're not used to yet?

Edgar: No, I've adjusted to the way of life. However, there's still one thing that's kind of weird to me. In China, the family name comes before the first name, and millions of people have the same surname. For example, Wang, Li, Zhang, Chen, and so on are the most common.

Will: No kidding!

Edgar: Yeah, at work when I called out Zhou, three colleagues used to answer me. But I managed to solve the problem.

Will: What did you do?

Your Ending

What do you think Edgar answers?

- ① I found out the first name of each one.
- ② Together we came up with a Western name for each: John, George, and Joe.
- ③ I left my work station and went and talked to each one.
- ④ Your idea: _____

Who says to be honest? (Edgar)

Why does he say to be honest?

(He is going to say something Will doesn't expect to hear.)

☺ respond with To be honest.

For example:

Why didn't you do the homework?

Who says got the hang of? (Edgar)

What did he get the hang of? (eating with chopsticks)

Explain that get the hang of means learn how to do.

☺ tell about something you got the hang of doing.

Who says kind of? (Edgar)

Does he mean very weird or a little weird? (a little)

☺ that we can use kind of in response to a question.

☺ respond to questions with yes, no, or kind of.

For example: Are you sleepy/hungry?

Who says No kidding? (Will) Why? (He's surprised.)

What is he surprised about? (Millions of people have the same surname.)

🌸 things you think will surprise you (No kidding).

For example:

People in Bulgaria nod their heads to mean "no"

and shake their heads to mean "yes."

Real Talk

to be honest = used to state something more directly to get the hang of = to get used to doing something the right way

kind of = rather

No kidding! = an expression of surprise and disbelief

About the Conversation

Answers will vary.

1. What things does Edgar say are the same in Shanghai?
2. What's his conversational Chinese like?
3. What did Edgar find difficult at first?
4. What is unusual about Chinese surnames?

1. There's a lot of traffic, crowded buses, tall buildings, and modern shopping malls.
2. He's still learning Chinese for everyday situations.
3. Eating with chopsticks was difficult for him at first.
4. The surnames come before the first names, and millions of people have the same surname.

Your Turn

Role-play the conversation like the one above but using a different country. Express surprise at some of the things mentioned.

No kidding! You're kidding! Really?
I never knew that

A: So, what's it like living and working in America?

B: Well, to be honest, in today's globalized world, there isn't all that much difference anymore, especially in big cities like New York , where I'm based. There's a lot of traffic, crowded subways and buses, tall skyscrapers, and modern shopping malls just like in other large cities around the world.

A: Have any differences struck you?

B: Well, A thumbs up was tricky at first, But I know its meaning. It is an indicator of a job well done,.

A: What about the language?

B: Most of the people I work with speak English. I'm still learning English to handle everyday situations.

A: Is there anything else you're not used to yet?

B: No, I've adjusted to the way of life. However, there's still one thing that's kind of weird to me. In America, people like to keep their distance, and are uncomfortable if someone moves in close. But I managed to solve the problem.

A: What did you do?

B: I try to keep distance for about 40 centimeters

Teaching Tip

Before giving a test, it's a good idea to review the most important material and to give students an idea of what areas to focus on when they study. No student is able to remember everything learned during class. Reviewing for a test will allow them to prepare adequately and to really show how much they have learned.

Additional Activity

Have students role-play a conversation between Edgar and a Chinese colleague during Edgar's first week in China. Edgar makes several cultural mistakes and his Chinese colleague tries to help him.

- Shanghai is the largest city in China. It has a population of over 20 million people.
- Shanghai is the fourth most densely populated city in the world, after London, Mexico City, and New York.
- Nearly 40 percent of the world's mobile phones and laptops, and 50 percent of the world's cameras and shoes are made in China.
